THE LEGEND STILL LIVES.

Can you imagine that breathtaking moment when, in May 1953, some extraordinarily fortunate journalists first caught a glimpse of the D-Type. They actually saw the prototype - a design that Malcolm Sayer and Bill Haynes continued to craft and refine. But, even so, a legend was already in the making.

By '54 the car was ready to take on the world. As you might expect, it did so with style. When the 170mph D-Type graced the Le Mans 24 Hours race for the very first time, it tore up the previous lap record, slicing 5 seconds off the previous record.

By 1955, even better was to come as the D-Type won Le Mans that year. Building on this success, when a small number of D-Type cars were made available to the public in 1956, the "Ecurie Ecosse" team were one of the buyers. Driven by Ron Flockhart and Ninian Sanderson, the "Ecurie Ecosse" car went on to win the famous race.

And so to Le Mans 1957 - the year that secured the legendary status of the D-Type forever. Now armed with a 300bhp 3.8 liter engine, Ivor Bueb and Ron Flockhart's Flag Blue No.3 car took first place on the Le Mans podium with drivers of four more D-Type cars occupying second, third, fourth and sixth positions. It was a truly astonishing achievement in what was the most successful period for Jaguar at Le Mans.

THE HERITAGE '57 COLLECTION.
CAPTURING THE SPIRIT OF AN HISTORIC JAGUAR.

Successive Le Mans victories of '55 and '56 helped pave the way for the most dominant period Jaguar has enjoyed to date at Le Mans.

Of the 54 cars that started the race that year, only 21 were destined to finish. Five were Jaguar D-Type cars.

To commemorate our most successful period at Le Mans, our Heritage '57 Collection is inspired by the winning No 3 "Ecurie Ecosse" team car and is a fitting salute to an astonishing achievement of racing success.

Distinguished by the blue flag of the Ecurie Ecosse team, our Heritage '57 Collection has been created without compromise and draws on signature cues from the winning No. 3 car. This lifestyle collection perfectly encapsulates the style and spirit of the most successful era in Jaguar's history.
