RE: Coming to America

The big question is; Why do people flee their own countries to come to America?
 The answer is and always was, FREEDOM.

But isn't it time for people who want to come to America to understand that freedom comes with rules, regulations and a price that is enforceable?

We all know that our government has ignored illegal immigration for over forty years. We also know it's very unpopular to talk about rules, regulations and a price concerning illegal immigration.

Unfortunately, we now know that our two-party system no longer works toward solving problems that are unpopular, like immigration.

Isn't it time for American voters and taxpayers to demand that our political parties, and their leaders, work together to find a program with a timeline designed to legalize worthy immigrants who are already here? That would include people who take the responsibility to live by our laws, rules and regulations plus pay taxes and complete the set timeline that earns the right to be legal. Next, we must improve our outdated program for those who seek to enter our country legally. Third, we must finally stop illegals from entering the country and stop all the problems that go with that situation, like drugs, crime and cost to our economy.

This American taxpayer and voter is aware there are many illegals who are now an asset to our country and is hopeful a path for legality is possible, very soon.

My car salesman outline of solutions is probably not perfect, but the immigration problem, when properly fixed, will then be counted as an American asset.
