

Lease Vehicle Excess Wear & Tear Plan

Leasing a new car should be a carefree and enjoyable alternative to the responsibilities of auto ownership.

But many of the risks of driving a car – the small dents and dings that happen in parking lots, chipped paint, even worn tires – are your responsibility at lease-end. You either repair them, or you pay the leasing company to perform the repairs. You may lose part of your security deposit, all of it, or maybe even more... Why worry about the kinds of things that happen to almost any car?

With Lease Vehicle Excess Wear & Tear, you may not have to worry about unexpected wear and tear charges at the end of your lease. There may be coverage up to $5,000 of the cost of repairing all the dents, dings, scratches, and wear & tear on your vehicle at lease-end including:

- Tires
- Paint
- Exterior dents & dings
- Windshield & glass
- Headlamps, tail lamps, light bulbs
- Bumpers and the surrounding trim
- Wheels and wheel covers
- Factory Audio Equipment
- Upholstery and interior
- Carpets
- Mufflers & tail pipes
- Mirrors
- Door handles

Total Loss Protection Plan*

It's called "the gap." It's the difference between the actual value of your car and the amount on your auto loan or lease at the time of a total loss. In the first two or three years of ownership, your car may actually be worth less than your loan payoff.

If your car were a total loss, this "gap" could translate into thousands of dollars that you would still owe after your insurance paid you the actual cash value of your vehicle

In the event of a total loss, any remaining balance due on your loan or lease after the payment from your insurance company is waived by the dealer/lender. In other words, should a balance be left over after your insurance pays the market or cash value, all you will have to pay is your insurance deductible.

*This is not an insurance product.

 Does not include any late fees or past due amounts
