RINKER HERITAGE

As the oldest American boat brand in continuous production, the Rinker Boat Company has quite a story to tell. From our humble beginnings on the White River in Indiana to today when we're exporting boats to more than 40 countries, we build with pride, craftsmanship and the desire to deliver the best value in the industry.

We are proud to remain true to our Midwestern heritage, and we are thankful for all of our Rinker owners throughout the years who have chosen to share some of their family's most treasured memories with us.

Throughout the years, Rinker has always focused on performance, rugged construction, and giving you the best value on the water.

1930

- In the 1930s, dairy farmer Lossie "L.E." Rinker started building fishing and racing boats out of his workshop on the White River in Indiana. His sons, Jan and John, joined their father after serving in the Korean War and established Rinkerbuilt in Syracuse, Indiana.

RINKERBUILT

Rinker has been building boats in the same location for over 69 years!

1945

- In 1945, the company's first racing brand called Famous Craft was born.

1958

- In 1958, Rinkerbuilt introduced fiberglass construction – long before most competitors

- Throughout the 1970s, Rinkerbuilt rolled out new runabout designs up to 20 feet.

1968

- Rinkerbuilt's 15- & 17- foot tri-hulls became some of the most popular boats of the 1970s with both outboards and the new inboard/outboard.

- In 1968, Rinkerbuilt went international

1970s

- The 1980s brought a new name (Rinker), new logo, new designs, and the first Rinker Cruisers.

RINKER

1980s

- In the 90's, Rinker built some of the most popular express cruisers in the world. The Rinker Captiva line expanded to include big-block motors and exhilarating performance.

1990s

- Rinker is now owned by Nautic Global Group, one of the largest boat builders in the world. Today, just as in the 1930s, innovation remains the cornerstone of Rinker with 15 new products introduced in the last three years.

Bimini tops with stand-up support, storage boot and stainless steel fittings are standard on most Sport Boats. Aft bungee-cord fasteners make haste of canvas installation. They also let the canvas expand and contract with the outdoor temperature, extending canvas life. (Sunbrella N/A on 186)
