Mother's Day fun facts, trivia, and famous mothers in history

Mother's Day is right around the corner, so here are some fun facts, trivia and famous mothers in history.

Mother's Day Fun Facts and Trivia:

1) Mother's Day is the third most popular holiday, after Christmas and then Easter.

2) The carnation is the special flower for Mother's Day. Tradition calls for wearing a red one if one's mother is alive, and white if she has died.

3) Mother's Day is the third biggest day of the year for sending cards.

4) Mother's Day is the busiest day of the year for restaurants.

5) There are more phone calls made on Mother's Day than on any other day of the year. An AT&T survey estimated that 122.5 million phone calls to mom are made on Mother's Day.

6) 24.8 is the median age of women when they give birth for the first time - meaning one-half are above this age and one-half are below.

7) Chinese family names are often formed (begin) with a sign that means "mother". It's a nice way of honoring their moms long past.

8) Some tribes of people, like the Asam in Africa, don't call themselves families. They call themselves "maharis", or "motherhoods."

9) The odds of delivering twins is 1-in-33. For triplets, it's 1-in-539.

10) August is the most popular month for having babies.

11) Tuesday is the most popular day of the week for having babies.

12) 4.3 babies are born every second.

13) The average woman in 17th-century America gave birth to 13 children.

Famous Mothers in History:

1) Jayne Bleackley is the mother who holds the record for the shortest interval between two children born in separate pregnancies. The babies were born 208 days apart.

2) Elizabeth Ann Buttle is the mother who holds the record for the longest interval between the birth of two children. The babies were born 41 years 185 days apart.

3) The highest officially recorded number of children born to one Russian mother is 69.

4) The modern world record for giving birth is held by Leontina Albina. Leontina claims to be the mother of 64 children, of which only 55 are documented.

5) Signora Carmelina Fedele gave birth to a 22 lb. 8 oz. boy in Italy in 1955. Ouch. She currently holds the record for delivering the heaviest baby.

6) On November 28, 2008, 70-year old Rajo Devi of India gave birth to her first child.

What Is Your Dream?

by Julie Martino

This isn't about me. It's about you. It's about helping you to overcome everything that has ever stood in your way, everything that ever will stand in your way. It's about being able to have all your dreams.

Take a journey with me and I'll show you how it can be possible.

I was 19 years old and laying in the hospital. It had been one heck of a month. 19, pregnant, no partner, in the hospital, what else could the world possibly throw at me?

Ever felt that way? Maybe not the 19 part. Maybe not the hospital part. But chances are at some point in your life you found yourself asking the same questions. What else do I have to do to get ahead? I try to do the right stuff, but it never seems to be enough.

Yeah, I've been there too. Thinking the world was crashing down over my head. Yet life goes on.

Not much of a comfort is it? We've all had those times of impossible pressure when we have no idea how we'll make it out. And it scares us. It shakes us to the core. But it also tells us who we are, and what we're made of.

Maybe it's not about the moment at all. Maybe it's about the struggle and learning how to overcome. We've all heard that achieving our dreams takes hard work. So maybe, instead of all that hard stuff we've been through being a curse, it was a blessing.

Laying in the hospital that night, I discovered that I was going to need surgery to remove a tumor from my ovary.

That day, my life changed forever. Now, I was 19 and sterile. The only pregnancy I would ever carry was inside of me, and there was no guarantee she would survive. Suddenly it wasn't about my fiancé, family, job, or money. It was about survival. And that changes everything.

Have you ever noticed that when you go into survival mode things seem so much clearer? Stressed - yes, but simpler.

What about you? Where are you going? Have you ever really stopped to think about what you want? Or are you just walking a road that started many years ago?

What is it that you really want? The problem isn't really that we don't know what we want. It's that we don't like to think about it.

Deep down, we believe that there's no way to accomplish it. So we put it into safer terms for ourselves - peace, security - those sound nice. Not selfish, people won't judge us harshly for wanting those. Or prosperity - a nice house, a cool car - those are normal goals. People will accept us for those goals.

Do you see the pattern here? We limit our thinking about our dreams to what people will accept or expect of us. Time to break out of that mold.

THANK YOU!

Ric Maust Napa CA

I felt worn out and beat up like my old vehicle, just going through the motions of everyday life. Awesome, Cool, Proud don't begin to express the emotions I feel. I am confident and not ashamed to be seen in my new ride. I was nervous about committing to such a beautiful vehicle and taking on this commitment was intimidating but Napa Chrysler's awesome customer service and people skills made me feel comfortable, at home and respected as a buyer and a person.
