Mazda CX-9 Named Car of the Year

The Mazda CX-9 has won the overall AMI Insurance NZ Autocar Car of the Year award for 2016.

After a day of back-to-back testing with the five other cars, the CX-9 amassed more points than its rivals to claim the title. It was also the winner of the AMI Insurance Safety Award.

Mazda's new CX-9 was praised by the judges for its outstanding value, the new model bringing improved safety, more luxury, and enhanced drivability and economy from its clever turbocharged engine, while still delivering the family friendly features of a large seven-seater. The judging process rewards the car that is best across all criteria, not just majoring in a few of them, and the CX-9 had no real area of weakness.

For safety, specification, build quality and overall value, it scored well, as it did on practicality. It's very user friendly yet it also scored well on the performance front, judges acknowledging the new engine both from a power and economy standpoint, while gaining good marks for refinement, ride and NVH.

The CX-9 was also the winner of the AMI Insurance Safety Award, recognizing advancements in passive and active safety features.

The win is seen as the democratization of advanced safety features, as there are still many six-figure luxury cars with less standard fit safety systems than the CX-9.

Mazda includes the usual ESP, airbags and reversing camera in the CX-9, as well as autonomous emergency city braking, blind spot monitoring and cross traffic alert on all models, while the Limited Edition comes with radar cruise, adaptive LEDs, active lane keeping, a heads-up display and also a driver attention alert.

The previous CX-9 was not ANCAP crash tested but this new one has achieved a full five stars, with a score of 35.87 out of a possible 37 points.

To determine the overall Car of the Year Award winner, each class-winning car is driven by a panel of six judges over the same drive loop, and each is scored out of 100 points covering five criteria.

These take into account design (which also includes safety), performance (not only how well it goes but what impact it has on fuel reserves), driving dynamics (how it corners, rides and overall refinement), practicality (accommodation, ergos, versatility) and value (specification, quality and bang for buck).
