2021 MAZDA CX-9 SIGNATURE INTERIOR REVIEW | A CONVINCING MOVE TOWARD LUXURY

And it comes fully loaded for the price of base-model luxury alternatives autoblog.com edited

Mazda has been moving upmarket over the past few years, positioning itself closer to something like Acura than Honda, for instance. One of the clearest signs of this is in the Signature trim levels that combine a large number of features with high-end materials. To see how successful the Signature trim is at turning a Mazda into a near-luxury vehicle, we spent some time in the biggest and most expensive example the company offers, the 2021 Mazda CX-9 Signature.

Although the interior accoutrements are the real appeal of the Signature, Mazda does sprinkle a little extra flash on the outside, too. The 2021 model has a new, unique grille design that especially stands out at night with a subtle line of LED lights around the lower edge of the grille. It picks up 20-inch wheels and bigger dual exhaust tips, too. They're nice little details that help it stand out without shouting about the fact that it's the fanciest version.

Stepping inside, you get some really superb trimmings. The most impressive is the Santos

Rosewood that surrounds the shifter and the window controls on the doors. They're fairly thick pieces of wood that have a beautiful, deep brown color and feel soft and smooth to the touch. Close behind is the addition of real aluminum trim along the dashboard and on the doors by the handles. Then there are the Nappa leather seats with quilted stitching and contrast piping.

The second row of seats also get some love. Captain's chairs are the only option, and they're split by a center console that houses storage and the heated seat controls. It gives the row a slightly more executive feel. The third-row seats are left untouched and continue to be more of an occasional-use feature.

Many of the standard CX-9 interior features also hold up well here. The climate controls in particular look clean and uncluttered and feel great with crisp action. The gauges and infotainment layout are minimalist and elegant. The latter is the latest version of Mazda's infotainment system, and it looks pleasant on the newly standard 10.25-inch screen.

The CX-9 Signature is solidly practical. Despite being one of the smaller three-row crossovers, it has usable space for all occupants. Surprisingly, the second row might be the best, as it has the most head, leg and knee room.

To get into a CX-9 Signature, it will cost you $47,805. While that's not a small amount of money, it does come in lower or almost the same amount as the base examples of three-row luxury models. The new Infiniti QX60 starts at slightly higher than the CX-9 Signature. The Cadillac XT6 comes in at just under $50,000, and the Lincoln Aviator starts over $50,000.

Overall, the CX-9 Signature comes mighty close to luxurious as some of the really high-end crossovers. And it does so for a discount, one that only gets bigger as you pile on options with fancier competitors, since the Signature is as decked out as a CX-9 can get. Add in the excellent children and helping to build and safeguard our future.

Now thru August 31st, Schwartz Mazda will provide a free oil change, car cleaning, and vehicle inspection for all educators on most makes & models.

Let us help you enjoy your summer and get ready for a New School Year. Contact us to make an appointment today

MAZDA PLANS 10 NEW HYBRIDS, 3 ELECTRIC VEHICLES (EV) BY 2025

kbb.com edited

Virtually every automaker is moving toward a mostly electrified lineup. Mazda is the latest to announce its plans. They have not vowed to stop building internal combustion engines by a set date, but have set a date to reach carbon neutrality — 2050.

In a statement, Mazda also laid out plans for a sprint to no fewer than 13 new electric and hybrid vehicles in less than four years.

Key to the plans is a new vehicle platform Mazda calls the Skyactiv Multi-Solution Scalable Architecture. Among its attributes is the ability to be a platform for pure electric vehicles. Mazda plans to use it for three. It can also accommodate hybrid designs (of which Mazda plans five) or plug-in hybrids (another five).

After that, Mazda says, "we assume that 100% of our products will have some level of electrification, and our EV ratio will be 25% by 2030."

Mazda has one electric vehicle (EV)

reaching dealerships soon, arriving this Fall in California, — the sharp-looking MX-

30 crossover. With rear-hinged rear doors like the last-generation RX-8, it's undeniably Mazda. In addition, the company plans to bring back its famous rotary engine design for a future hybrid version of the MX-30.

COVID UPDATES...

We at Schwartz Mazda are taking every precaution for our customers in relation to the new variant going around.

We have our dealership disinfected every day, twice a day. All the surfaces are wiped down and leave you a note stating that the area has been cleaned. We have our café chairs separated so that you feel safe with the distancing.

If you enter with a mask and feel more comfortable with one of our reps wearing one, just say so and we will comply.

We always want the customer to feel safe within the dealership.

SAVORY CRACKER SNACK MIX

Ingredients

1-1/2 cups potato sticks
1-1/2 cups cheddar-flavored snack crackers
1-1/2 cups sourdough pretzel nuggets
3 tablespoons butter

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

3 tablespoons olive oil

1-1/2 teaspoons sesame seeds

1-1/2 teaspoons dried minced garlic

1-1/2 teaspoons dried minced onion

1-1/2 teaspoons poppy seeds

1/4 teaspoon kosher salt

Directions

Preheat oven to 350°. In a large bowl, combine potato sticks, crackers and pretzels. In a small saucepan, melt butter; stir in remaining ingredients. Drizzle over pretzel mixture; toss to coat.

Spread in a greased 15x10x1-in. baking pan. Bake until crisp and lightly browned, 12-15 minutes, stirring every 4 minutes.

Cool completely in pan on a wire rack.

Store in an airtight container.
